

Converting to SQF's 7th Edition Workshop

October 4th – 5th, 2012

Dairy Management, Inc., 10255 West Higgins Road, Suite 900, Rosemont, Illinois 60018-5616

Course Description:

The Center for Food Safety & Regulatory Solutions (CFSRS) “Practical Implementation: Converting to SQF’s 7th Edition” Workshop targets those individuals that have responsibility for building, maintaining and updating plant SQF programs that will meet customer, company and regulatory requirements. This is particularly challenging since the new 7th Edition of the SQF Code (effective July 1, 2012) has new Level II requirements, some rewording of Level III requirements, a complete reformatting of the Code and organizing material in “modules” versus “sections”. The real challenge when updating existing plant SQF written programs is to also ensure compliance with the 2011 FDA Food Safety Modernization Act. One example is additional requirements in the areas of food defense, environmental monitoring, food ingredient-packaging-finished food transport, etc. Successful completion of this workshop will prepare the attendee to take and pass the on-line SQF “Implementing SQF Systems” test, which results in an official SQFI certificate documenting the attendee’s knowledge of the 7th Edition of the SQF Code.

This Workshop is for food processing corporate and plant staff with or without SQF training or experience and food processing corporate plant staff with responsibilities for updating existing SQF programs to the new 7th Edition of the SQF Code. It is strongly recommended that attendees have current HACCP training (16 hours within the last 4 years). The course will prepare the participants to take the official “Implementing SQF Systems” Exam online examination. Upon completion of the online exam, Certificates of Attainment can be printed from the SQF website.
